

Probe Ordered of Secret Red Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today ordered an investigation into whether Russia has been secretly testing nuclear weapons and whether such tests could be conducted without detection.

The order to his Science Advisory Committee indicated clearly that Kennedy is studying the possibility of a resumption of U.S. nuclear tests, now voluntarily suspended.

But Kennedy told his news conference the United States still wants, and will strive for, a controlled and agreed-on nuclear armament test ban.

He will keep the U.S. negotiating team at the stalled test ban conference in Geneva, he said.

Kennedy urged that Soviet Premier Khrushchev end his nation's "intransigence" and accept a reasonable formula for permanently ending the nuclear testing.

The stumbling block has been Soviet rejection of Western demands that an effective policing system be set up along with a ban on tests, and more recent Kremlin demands for moving the nuclear test negotiations into the bigger talks on general disarmament.

Texas Tower Designers Criticized

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate report today sternly criticized the Navy and the designers and builders of the radar "Texas Tower" that collapsed in a blizzard and carried all hands — 28 men — to their deaths.

The report — which added that the Air Force must also shoulder its share of the blame — bitterly referred to "buckpassing" and "the hedge-podge of indecision." The terrific forces of winds and waves were clearly miscalculated, the report said.

The 5,000-ton steel structure, perched like a giant three-legged stool in open sea 80 miles off the New Jersey coast, was battered and driven to ocean bottom last Jan. 15 by gale winds and waves.

Earlier this month, the Air Force ordered Col. William M. Banks to stand court-martial, charged with being derelict in duty in connection with the tragedy. Banks was in command of the Boston Air Defense center and the tower was part of its radar network.

The Air Force said Banks had failed to keep himself apprised of the tower's situation.

In today's report, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Defense Preparedness subcommittee, said a careful examination of expert witnesses "reveals that the design criteria, upon which the final structural integrity was to be based, was clearly inadequate."

"This inadequacy must be charged to the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks and the structural design engineers," Stennis said in commenting on the committee's unanimous report.

Treatment for Lana's Daughter

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Cheryl Crane, 17-year-old daughter of movie star Lana Turner, has been admitted to the Institute of Living for psychiatric treatment.

Miss Crane, Miss Turner and her mother's fifth husband, rancher Fred May, arrived Tuesday.

The girl, a ward of the state of California since she slew her mother's boy friend Johnny Stompanato in 1954, was admitted to the institute voluntarily, said Dr. Gordon Edgren, assistant medical director. He said he could not estimate how long she would stay.

Miss Crane, whose father is Stephen Crane, Miss Turner's second husband, has run away from several homes for girls.

JFK Blames Berlin Crisis on Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said today that nothing Russia does can affect the West's rights in Berlin.

Kennedy said the crisis over Berlin is "Soviet manufactured." Kennedy said the Western Allies formed alliances after World War II that are wholly defensive in nature. He warned in a statement at his news conference:

"The Soviets would make a grave mistake if they supposed that Allied unity and determination can be undermined by threats or fresh aggressive acts."

"There is peace in Germany and in Berlin. If it is disturbed it will be a direct Soviet responsibility."

It was Kennedy's first news conference in Washington in nearly eight weeks, and he opened it by reading a statement reiterating his administration's strong position on the German city.

Kennedy also announced that he had instructed his Science Advisory Committee to organize a special study to determine whether the Russians have been or could be engaged in secret testing of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy said the Soviets' insistence on a veto over machinery to police a nuclear test ban is disheartening and "raises a serious question" about how long the United States can maintain its voluntary ban on such tests.

Taking note of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent statement that Russia would be outproducing the United States by 1970, the President said that could never take place at any time in the 20th Century and added:

"We invite the USSR to engage in this competition which is peaceful and which could only result in a better living standard for both of our peoples."

In his statement on Berlin, Kennedy put quotation marks around the word "crisis" in reference to the city.

Saying Khrushchev had threatened to sign a peace treaty with the Communist regime in East Germany, he used quotation marks again around peace treaty.

Khrushchev has said this would end Allied rights in West Berlin. "It is clear that such unilateral action cannot affect these rights, which stem from the surrender of Nazi Germany," Kennedy declared.

Kennedy showed no signs of his back strain or recent virus infection. He replied to a question about his health by saying he was "feeling very well."

In response to a question, Kennedy said no plan for partial mobilization has been placed before him at the present, but that various groups are considering the problem created by Berlin, and "of course we will be considering a whole variety of measures."

Prisoners Await on Committee

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A delegation of 10 prisoners from Cuba waited today for the disbanded Tractors for Freedom Committee to decide whether it would reform and resume blocked negotiations.

The prisoners conferred for nearly four hours Tuesday night with John Hooker Jr., executive secretary of the committee, and announced afterwards that nothing had been changed in their situation.

Hooker said, however, he was hopeful there would be a decision today or Thursday on whether the committee would reconstitute itself to renew the talks.

The committee members were Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton Eisenhower and Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers.

Hooker said he had been in touch with every member of the committee, including Eisenhower, who had been out of the country.

However, another spokesman for the committee, Frank Winn, said in Detroit he knew of no contact between Reuther and Hooker. He added that he knew of no plans to resume negotiations, and "I'd certainly know about such a development right away."

Neither Hooker nor the prisoners would make any statement concerning the conference. The delegation said through a spokesman that they feared a statement "might be misinterpreted by one side or the other" and "might endanger our companions in Cuba."

Education Bill Appears on the Rocks

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders have just about given up hope that President Kennedy's multibillion-dollar aid to education program can be put to a vote this session.

A deep split among Democrats on the Rules Committee over the issue of aid for parochial schools apparently has doomed both Kennedy's $2.5-billion public school bill and a $1.8-billion extension of the National Defense Education Act.

The House has a long history of opposition to school bills, having killed three in the last eight years. This time the addition of religious controversy to the normal opposition of conservatives has made the going even tougher.

The threatened demise of the bills in the Rules Committee is a blow not only to Kennedy but to Speaker Sam Rayburn, who won a five-vote victory early in the session over Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee, in a bitter fight for its control.

When Rayburn won the way seemed open for Kennedy's program to get to the floor. But events have played into Smith's hands in the school fight and he now appears firmly in control. Smith can nearly always count

Arkansas Hands a Smashing Defeat to Faubus' Bond Issue

Hempstead and Nevada Go Against Bonds

Hempstead County decisively smashed the proposed $60 million bond issue yesterday. The vote was 742 for and 1,881 against.

Not a single city box voted favorable for the bonds. Six County boxes went for the bonds and one, Janka Jones, split the ballot even.

Boxes going for the bonds were McNab, Piney Grove, Deanyville, DeAnn, Stephenson's School House and Friendship. In all the others it was generally no contest.

Nevada County went much the same as Hempstead. The final tabulation show 519 for the bonds and 1,087 against.

Arabs Line Up Against Iraq's Claim

CAIRO (AP) — Arab leaders were lining up today against Iraq's claim to the rich little sheikdom of Kuwait.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic came out against any effort by Iraq to grab the oil prize on her southeast border. The U.A.R. announcement, combined with firm

AUDI Arabian opposition to Iraq's claim, was expected to swing most of the 10-nation Arab League behind Kuwaiti Sheikh Sir Abdullah As-Salim As-Sabah's defiance of Iraqi Premier Abdel Harim Kassem.

The U.A.R. does not accept the logic of annexation," said Minister of State Abdel Kader Hatem said in a broadcast over Cairo radio.

Saudi Arabia's Radio Mecca broadcast a declaration by King Saud that "any mishap that befalls Kuwait affects Saudi Arabia and vice versa." Officials in Kuwait reportedly were told Saudi was determined to use force if Kuwait is "subjected to any military action."

King Hussein of Jordan told the sheik that "Jordan will always work for the good of her sister states and the Arab nation at large."

Baghdad radio meanwhile blared forth claims that "all Iraqi commanders and public organizations in the country are behind Kassem's claim to sovereignty."

Wants Red China Out Completely

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., raised a Republican threat today to try to attach an anti-Red China resolution to President Kennedy's foreign aid bill.

Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, said the State Department is against action now by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on a resolution opposing diplomatic recognition for Red China and its admission to the United Nations.

Unless such a resolution can be passed separately, Dirksen told reporters, it will be offered as an amendment to the $4.8-billion foreign aid bill when that measure reaches the Senate floor.

Dirksen said Red China and the critical Berlin issue will be discussed by Republican Senate and House leaders at a news conference this afternoon following a GOP leadership meeting.

"It's my judgment the country is ahead of the President and Congress on Berlin," Dirksen declared. "The country believes the time has come for an absolutely

SUSPENSE SETTE

A Short Short Story

FAREWELL, FAIR SALLY GALAN

By ESTER ARNO

Old Soap Opera Goes Off Air "Sally Gallant," one of radio's oldest soap operas, was broadcast for the last time today. Millions of American housewives followed the daily adventures of the brave young widow for 25 years.

A new bottle of hand, a fresh pack of cigarettes opened, Mrs. Maude Mulch blew her nose vigorously and settled down to write the most important letter of her life:

"Believe me, Sally, writing this letter is the most important thing I've ever done." Mrs. Mulch poured herself a drink and continued. "I was one of your first listeners. As a matter of fact, I heard your first show and I have been a faithful listener, through thick and thin.

"When the program first started and you had just been married to Tom Gallant, that was when Joe was courting me. I remember many's the night after Joe kissed me goodbye after we had had a fight that I asked myself, 'Would Sally have done it like that?'

"Anyway, after your poor husband, Tom Gallant, died, I suffered with you every day after you had decided to go to Metropolis City and become a model. Joe and I had been married for about a year and that was when he left me. Joe was not like Tom Gallant.

"Remember when you almost married that artist, Pablo Pastore? I was afraid you would weaken, Sally, but you were strong and withstood him. I sure wish I had been strong, too. I knew better than to marry Harry. He was really after my inheritance, the money that my dear, departed mother left me just like Pablo was after your money. Only your inheritance came from your dear, departed husband, Tom Gallant.

"Then there was that time you had amnesia. Golly, did I ever worry about you, Sally, wandering around and not even knowing your own name! That was when I had a terrific fight with Jim Harry and I had been divorced and Jim seemed like such a reliable type. I sure found out he wasn't that one night that he said you were a nut. Believe me, I flared up at that. And when he said that if you weren't a nut, you'd be happy not knowing who you were. That's when I hit him with the little lamp that used to stand on my boudoir table.

"I listened to you every day in the hospital. I was there for six weeks. As I said, after Jim said you were a nut and I hit him with the boudoir lamp, he really went crazy. The doctors said I was lucky. Jim went to the county jail where he belonged all the time. I tried to get him to give me separation money or alimony but he just laughed in my lawyer's face and said he was better off at the county jail than with me, which will give you an firm stand.

"The people believe the time has come to stop Khrushchev from kicking us around and permitting this erosion of the free world inch by inch."

Other Republicans have voiced concern that the United States might consider a policy change under which it would accept Red China's admission to the United Nations if Nationalist China's seat can be held in that body.

"He was after your money."

idea of what a low character he was all the time.

"The one part of the show that really had me worried was when they had you up for forgery, Sally. Of course, having listened to the days when you weren't on the show, I knew that you were innocent, but what worried me was that the judge and the jury hadn't heard that part of the program and I thought for sure they were going to send you up. Maxwell used to listen along with me during that time. You see, I got the divorce from Jim and Maxwell and I met on a bus and we got married and then he was sick at the time. Well, not exactly sick, but he was in bed a lot of the time.

"And now, to think it's all over, Sally. After 25 years. Believe me, we have both suffered. True, you never married again after poor Tom Gallant died, but maybe it was just as well. I am not married now, either, Sally, and I hope to stay that way and, like you said on your last program, 'bravely face the future.'

"Please find time to answer me, Sally, and maybe we can become like they say 'pen pals.' We have so much in common."

"Your faithful friend, Maude Mulch"

Travelers Can't Win Close Ones

By VERNON BUTLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

If it's true as a lot of baseball people say that champions always win the close games, the Little Rock Travelers might just as well reconcile themselves to also-ran status in the 1961 Southern Association pennant race.

The Travs played their 26th one-run decision last night, lost it 2-1 to the Mobile Bears and ruefully contemplated an 11-15 record for their close-to-the-vest dealings.

To make matters more hectic for Manager Fred Hatfield, the Travelers have played seven consecutive one-run decisions, and they have dropped four of these, three to the pesky, rejuvenated Mobile outfit.

Elsewhere in the Southern, Birmingham restored its league lead over Chattanooga to a full game by whitewashing the Shreveport Sports 6-0 behind Alan Koch. Chattanooga blanked Atlanta 2-0 in the first game of their double-header, but the Crackers escaped with a split by topping the Lookouts 3-1 in a second game shortened to seven innings by a heavy rainfall. Macon shaded Nashville 5-4 in 10 innings on a pinch-hit double by George Holder. Mobile, remained in the cellar today, but the Bears were only two games out of fourth place after their 10th victory in the last 12 games.

A homer by Lou Holdener and a second run, tallied by Bobby Case while Little Rock was executing a doubleplay, gave right-hander Gene Lary sufficient runs for his sixth victory for Mobile. The veteran right-hander has lost eight games.

Bob Thorpe's double in the fourth inning plated Don Saner with the lone Little Rock run. A homer by Don Lumley and John Sullivan's two-run double were big blows for Birmingham as the Barons backed Koch's four-hit pitching with two run-producing innings that netted the former Auburn ace his eighth victory in 12 decisions.

John Boozer improved his season chart to 8-4 by hurling his second shutout for Chattanooga over Atlanta. Boozer faced only 23 Crackers.

Atlanta rallied for three runs in the fifth inning of the nightcap to inflict a fifth setback on lefty Al Neiger, who was seeking his seventh Chattanooga victory. A bases-loaded single by Don LeJohn and a single by Jim Williams produced the three Cracker tallies.

Holder's pinch-hit for Macon came on the first pitch offered by Nashville reliever Bruce Swango. It scored Bill Gabler, who had opened the 10th with a single.

Education Bill

on the votes of the five Republicans on his committee and fellow Democrat William Colmer of Mississippi to defeat any administration bill calling for large expenditures.

Rayburn's victory added two more nominal administration supporters to the committee, making an eight-man majority. But two Catholics among the eight, Reps. James J. Delaney of New York and Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, joined Smith in holding up the school bill. Their aim was to assure that aid for parochial schools was added to the defense education measure.

Tuesday the House Education and Labor Committee did just that, authorizing long-term loans for parochial schools for non-religious purposes. The bill now goes to the Rules Committee and as of the moment that appears to be the end of the line for both it and the public school bill.

For Delaney has made it clear he will not vote to send the public school bill to the floor until the Rules Committee approves the defense education extension bill with its church school side.

eighty over Kuwait. The state-controlled radio referred to the Connecticut-sized sheikdom as Iraq's southern district of Kuwait.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said the Arab League may call an emergency meeting by the weekend. Sources in Beirut said the league might speed up approval of Kuwait's application for membership, filed after it attained independence last week from Britain.

In Kuwait Sheikh Sir Abdullah proclaimed a state of emergency and put his small army on a state of alert. Informed sources said

Sheik Abdullah Mubarak, the deputy ruler and heir apparent, had cut short a visit to Lebanon and returned home.

Kuwait's 2,400-man garrison is bolstered by British troops whose withdrawal after Kuwait gained independence last week was canceled following Iraq's move. Four British frigates lie in the Persian Gulf.

So far the border between Kuwait and Iraq was reported quiet. Travelers said road and rail transport between the two neighbors continued to operate.

Britain announced it would honor its pledge of military support if requested by its former protectorate.

The U.S. State Department also announced U.S. recognition of Kuwait as a sovereign state.

Bar Group Study

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Bar Association has named a committee of six lawyers to study court problems in the state and suggest solutions to them. The survey will include all administrative agencies from which there are appeals to the courts. John Fogelman of West Memphis is chairman of the committee.

Clubs Taxable

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office ruled Monday that veterans clubs are subject to taxation unless they are used exclusively for charity or public purposes. The opinion went to Drew County Tax Assessor Frank Rivers.

A. C. Mowery Jr., who took a federal job. Sadler will step into the seat tempted by the death of Rep. Clay Brazil during the 1961 session.

In other local elections held in connection with the statewide bond vote, Miller County's electorate approved a 300,000 industrial bond issue and Little River County voted a 1 1/2 mill property tax to finance construction of a nursing home.

The Miller County vote was 2,452 for the bonds and 899 against.

Little River, with 17 of 22 precincts reported, showed 513 votes for the tax and 354 against.

In his individual drive to get the bonds approved, Faubus charged that opposition was headed by integrationists who wanted only to embarrass him, but this contention apparently carried little weight with voters.

The key issue was whether the bonds could be financed without a new tax. Faubus contended accumulating revenue surpluses from current taxes would cover debt service. Opponents said approval of the bonds would mean a new tax or dipping into public school and welfare funds.

Both sides agreed that there are proven construction needs, particularly at the State Hospital and the institutions of higher learning. But bond opponents wanted a pay-as-you-go plan, using surplus funds freed by invalidation of the omnibus law and future surpluses as they accumulate.

Faubus had little comment on the outcome of the election before he retired Tuesday night after returning from a trip to Huntsville where he cast his ballot.

"Madison County will carry it," he said. "They vote for progress up there. That's all I have to say tonight," Faubus said.

Arnold Sikes, who took a leave of absence as the governor's administrative assistant to head the pro-bond Arkansas Building Program Committee, conceded defeat early. "One good thing came out of the campaign," Sikes said. "Even the opposition admitted the needs at the State Hospital and the institutions of higher learning."

Joshua Shepherd, chairman of the Arkansas Committee for Published the coffee for 14 guests. The hostesses were assisted by their mothers, Mrs. Norman Moore and Mrs. Jim Cole.

Mrs. Lula Andrews had Mrs. B. A. Courson of Hamburg as a weekend guest.

They left Tuesday for Roswell, N.M., accompanied by Mrs. Jack Ambrose and children, who were returning home after a months visit here with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Whitworth and Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Governors Tackle Aid to Education

By JACK BELL

HONOLULU (AP)—The nation's governors tackled the school financing problem today with conference speakers attacking and defending the Kennedy aid-to-education program.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff sent a bluntly worded challenge to "states' rights" opponents of President Kennedy's measure. He asked them to specify which, if any, of existing federal school aid programs they would be willing to give up.

Ribicoff, unable to attend, sent Asst. Secretary James M. Quigley to read his remarks.

Raymond Wiley, contributing editor of Newsweek magazine, said Kennedy's program of grants for school construction and teachers' salaries is "rooted and nourished in politics."

He added it "relies upon the quick but illusory proposition that the federal income tax is inexhaustible."

The school aid controversy at a scheduled business session preceded a stated dinner tonight at which Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was to review the grave international situation that has furnished an uneasy background to this otherwise gay and colorful 53rd annual conference.

In conversations with each other and with newsmen many governors made it clear they are apprehensive about new threatening gestures made by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Gov. David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania Democrat, proposed the conference go on record as solidly behind Kennedy in any negotiations with Khrushchev.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, Oregon Republican, said his party will unite behind the President on Berlin. But he said the GOP reserves the right "to disagree and to constructively offer criticism."

Ribicoff's message told the governors that those who cry out loudest about states' rights invariably "are quartered in the states receiving the greatest share of federal funds."

Committee Okays Lifting Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee approved today a House-passed bill to raise the national debt limit by $5 billion to a temporary ceiling of $298 billion.

The action came after an urgent plea by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon who said he must have that much borrowing power to operate in the year ahead.

Action by Congress is required to make sure the government can pay its bills next week. Without new legislation the limit drops Friday to the permanent level of $285 billion and the Treasury figures it will owe $4 billion more than that, on that date.

Texas, divided by the state line of Arkansas and Texas, has separate municipal governments and school systems but one chamber of commerce.

Public Schools and leading spokesman for bond opponents, issued a conciliatory victory statement. He said his side had no intention of crowing about the triumph.

Both Shepherds committee and the Arkansas Education Association, another vigorous bond opponent, worked against Faubus last fall when he backed a pro-bond school closing constitutional amendment which was defeated three to one in the general election.

Economy-minded Arkansans now have a three for three average against proposals which might cost them money. Along with the school closing measure last fall, they defeated proposed amendment which would have permitted increases in city taxes and salary increases for elected officials.

DOROTHY DIX Marriage and Work Hours at Sixes and Sevens

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My husband is in business for himself. If he feels like working, okay. If he feels like drinking, okay too. I work five days out of seven—up at 4:30 a.m., home by 2:30.

When I tell him I see his car parked every day outside a different bar room, he snarls that he has a right to a few drinks. If I say another word he grabs his hat and doesn't return till next morning.

His peevish customers ring our phone constantly, mad because work he promised isn't done. I have put up with this for 11 years. Would it be wise for me to take our three children and leave? I buy all of their clothing and most of our groceries. My staying at home isn't the answer. I've tried that. He acts worse than ever.—C.J.

Dear C.J.: If a man is happy in his home and work you can't pry him loose from either. Your husband obviously isn't happy else he wouldn't bar hop. You should be home to see that your husband has a nourishing breakfast. It's the most important meal of the day. A wholesome, well-balanced breakfast would satisfy your husband's nutritive requirements and lessen his craving for alcohol. So, if you must work, look for a job with more normal hours and above all, don't nag! Encourage your husband to do what he enjoys doing, business wise, even though he makes less money. Build your man up instead of tearing him down and there'll be no thought of that last resort—divorce.

Dear Helen: My father and mother and I, aged 14, are friendly with a mother and daughter. When these two hear we are taking a trip, visiting a club or plan to see someone, they want to go along. The daughter is 50 years old. If I want to take a friend with us, she blows her top and declares, there is no room. We own a 1959 four-door car which accommodates six people comfortably. What shall we do?—Richard

Dear Richard: Your parents are the hosts. It's up to them, not the mother and daughter, to plan the party. Unless your parents have a special reason for inviting them every time, they might ask someone else for variety and let you bring your friend on those occasions.

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful letters available. Write for "Firm Friends."

Dear Helen: I have a sailor for my problem. Last week three other girls and I went to Washington, D.C., on a sightseeing trip. Two sailors, 19 and 20 (the real home boy type) asked permission of the hotel manager to take us to the coffee shop. After a cola we sat in the lobby talking till 4:30 a.m.

The sailor I liked the best asked for a good night (or good morning) kiss. I said no. He was being shipped to Cuba the following day. We talked about everything under the sun—it seemed so right. He gave me his address and promised to write. I wrote him a letter and postcard while on our trip. Please don't say forget him. I had a real ball just talking to him. Before he said goodbye he whispered in my ear, "I'll remember this night." I could have died. We are both of the same religion. Do you think he will write?—Wondering Dreamer

Dear Dreamer: Your sailor certainly wouldn't have given his address if he had not wanted to see or hear from you again. But don't write him again until he writes you. And, if he shouldn't answer you by return mail, don't lose heart. He's in a troubled spot of the world and could be doing double duty.

Ends Boycott of Geneva Talks

GENEVA (AP)—Prince Boun Oum, head of the pro-Western Vientiane government of Laos, ended his boycott of the 14-power Geneva conference at its 24th session today.

Former Premier Phoumi Savanone, representing the five Laos political parties supporting Boun Oum, took a seat among the nations discussing his country's fate.

Hitherto, Boun Oum had refused to approve a Laotian delegate to the six-week-old conference.
